Key Sentiment Indexes

Quarter 4 - 2022

- Since the decline seen during the summer months of 2022, sentiment polarity in Greece has risen in the 4th quarter of the year, recuperating the score it had throughout the 2nd quarter (59, +34 pts). A similar pattern can be seen in Athens, where the score now stands at 66 (+26 pts). Greece's overall Net Sentiment Score for the full 4th quarter stands above that of Italy and Spain, while Athens' overall NSI outperforms all other competing destinations' scores.
- Greece's and Athens' NSI has risen in all markets since the 3rd quarter. For Greece, the UK market has especially recuperated, moving from a negative score of -4 to the current score of 49 (+53 pts). The same can be said about Athens, where its score in the UK market was at -17 in Q3, but is currently at 63 in Q4 (+80 pts). Other notable increases for Greece are seen in France (+43 pts) and Germany (+38 pts), while the French (+29 pts) and Dutch (+27pts) markets marked large changes for Athens.
- Conversations around COVID-19 have continued to decrease throughout the 4th quarter of 2022, a global trend that has followed since the lifting of restrictions. Such a trend is likely to continue if no new outbreaks or restrictions are announced, yet destinations continue to be scrutinised visitors in their capacity to maintains sanitary safety conditions.
- While the volume of social conversations increased on topics related to gastronomy and hospitality, they have decreased for Sanitary Safety, culture and cleanliness in comparison to the 3rd quarter. As has been seen with broader scores, NSI scores have increase for the majority of the aforementioned topics. NSI scores are especially high when it comes to hospitality, culture, and gastronomy.
- Moving in line with the season, the 4th quarter contained a high degree of positive drivers related to Autumn and Winter travel in Greece. This has helped place Greece's reputation as an "all-season tourist destination". Although a large degree of variety was found in topics, those related to Greece's offer of culture and food attracted a high amount of engagement throughout the year.
- Finally, although negative content largely decreased compared to the 3rd quarter, there were still some present during the 4th. Topics directly related to tourism had to do with the use of animals as a means of transport, pickpockets stealing from visitors, and specific travel scams that some had been affected by. On the other hand, topics that were not directly connected had to do with extreme weather, certain geopolitical issues, and the effects of inflation.

Negative Sentiment Drivers

What vigilance points to watch reputation-wise?

Despite the decrease compared to the 3rd quarter, negative content is somewhat present in the 4th. Some are directly related to tourism such as the use of animals as a means of transport, pickpockets, and travel scams. Other negative content is not as directly related to tourism, including extreme weather, geopolitical issues, and inflation.

Examples of reputation drivers...

- Issues related to the use of animals as a means of transport for holidaymakers (e.g., donkey)
- A hurricane-like storm hit Greece
- Extreme heat recorded in Greece in early October
- International travelers targeted by pickpockets in Athens
- Digital travel scams on the rise
- Geopolitical issues with Turkey (Turkey's threat over military attacks on the Greek islands, etc.)
- Greek bakers' financial struggles due to inflation and energy crisis

The topics mentioned may be not “mainstream” in the sentiment flow, sometimes even “anecdotal” or outside the tourism space strictly, however they can generate a negative influence on the overall attractiveness of Greece in potential travelers’ minds.

(*) Benchmark based on 34 European Countries for the same period

Quarter 4 - 2022

- The starting decline in number of reviews at the end of the 3rd quarter continued for both Greece and Athens in the 4th quarter. At the same time, overall ratings for Greece and Athens increased compared to Q3. Although a slight decline is seen for Athens in the month of December, ratings are still higher than the previous quarter.
- Along with the increase in ratings, Greece's overall score remains well above the European benchmark (+0,44 points). Almost all categories in Greece's offer have increased in Q3, with the exception of a very small decline for shopping (-0.01 vs Q3).
- Greece's offer in cultural and seaside activities are rated highest this quarter. The Sanitary Safety and Pandemic Precaution scores have increased overall, with the former being over the vigilance threshold. While Sanitary Safety is above 5 points for Accommodation and Restaurants, Attractions is below.
- A similar pattern is seen across the different areas of Greece, with all of their overall scores rising since Q3 and being above the European norm. While culture and seaside activities are rated highest in Athens and other areas, restaurants and shopping hold the highest visitor satisfaction at the Seaside. Moreover, the same pattern that is seen with regards to Sanitary Safety and Pandemic Precaution Scores is seen in Greece's tourism areas, with Accommodations and Restaurants holding generally higher scores than Attractions.
- Value for Money scores are above the European average for Greece as a whole, as is the case for all of its areas, a very positive result in the context of economic inflation. The Sustainable Travel score for Greece sits at the same level as that of Europe, with Athens and other areas being above the norm.
- When it comes to ratings per market, there has been an upward trend for almost all markets across all Greek regions monitored. The sole exception is the score for the German market in Athens, which has only slightly reduced by 0.03 points since Q3.
- Visitors coming from the United States tend to leave the highest ratings in general, followed by the UK in Athens and the Seaside, and by Italy for the other regions monitored in Greece.

Toplines

1. The 4th quarter of 2022 has been marked by an increase in Greece's sentiment polarity. The same pattern is seen in Athens. As such, the overall Net Sentiment Score of Greece for the 4th quarter stands above that of Italy and Spain. Additionally, Athens' overall NSI outperforms all other competing destinations' scores for the same time span.
2. The general increase in NSI scores is seen across all of Greece's and Athens' markets, notably so in the UK and French markets. Moreover, there has been an increase in score for almost all conversation topics, with hospitality, culture, and gastronomy holding particularly high scores.
3. In line with other findings social conversations about Greece have been very positive, reflecting its offer for Autumns and Winter travel plans. A large degree of topics have been around Greece's offer of culture and food, attracting a lot of engagement from potential visitors.
4. In line with the results seen for Greece's and Athens' NSI scores, overall ratings have increased compared to the 3rd quarter for both. Simultaneously, visitation has decreased, as is often the case after the busier summer months of the Q3.
5. Both Greece's overall rating score, and that of its separate tourism areas are all higher than the average in Europe. The highest score can be seen in Greece's other inland areas, followed by that of Athens. Additionally, Greece's offer in cultural and seaside activities are rated highest in the 4th quarter.
6. With regards to specific indicators, Sanitary Safety scores are above the 5-point threshold for the Accommodation and Restaurants verticals, while it is below for Attractions. At the same time, Value for Money scores are above the European average for Greece as a whole, as well as for all of its tourism areas, a positive result in the context of economic inflation.
7. Finally, as is reflected in Greece's sentiment at large, ratings per market have increased for the majority of markets across all of its monitored regions. Visitors from the United States are once again likely to leave the highest ratings.
